Doubt On Action In Strike

Wait of Day or So Longer on Coal Dispute Is Indicated

By Norman Walker

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—The White House indicated today that President Truman might wait a day or so longer before trying to head off a new coal strike.

Up until this morning, all signs had pointed to a presidential move today to keep the strike from starting again in two weeks.

Then, presidential press secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters he did not expect any development during the day. He said he had "no forecast" on what might happen in the next few days.

There was still a possibility that Mr. Truman would give some hint of his intentions at a late afternoon news conference (3 p.m. CST).

The president reportedly is considering two possible peace plans:

(1) To ask union leader John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators to submit their dispute to a special fact-finding board empowered to make recommendations. If accepted, this plan would have the effect of delaying a strike while the board studies the dispute—possibly for 60 days.

(2) To invoke the Taft-Hartley law. This provides for a fact-finding board study and for a court injunction against a strike.

Officials have indicated that Mr. Truman may propose the special fact-finding board first. If this is rejected, he then would invoke the Taft-Hartley emergency provisions next Monday.

May Call Board

President Truman was reported ready to ask union leader John L. Lewis and coal operators to submit their contract dispute to a special fact-finding board for a peace plan.

In lieu of that method, Mr. Truman could invoke the Taft-Hartley labor law. This calls for naming a fact-finding board to hold hearings and report the issues in dispute, after which a strike-banning court injunction could be sought.

Mr. Truman may make his decision known at a late afternoon news conference. Officials indicated that he may propose the special fact board first, and if Lewis rejects that idea, invoke the Taft-Hartley emergency provisions by Monday.

(The New York Times said today in a Washington dispatch that the White House staff, prepared for presidential action, has tentatively selected three men to serve on a board of inquiry. The Times story, based on authoritative information, said all three men are experts in arbitration and industrial relations. Their names were not made public.)

Up To Truman

The six-month-old coal dispute was put in the president's hands yesterday. Cyrus S. Ching, Federal Mediation Service chief, reported to the White House there seemed to be little use in trying further to get Lewis and the operators to agree on a compromise.

Lewis has asked for more wages and shorter hours for miners. He also wants a boost in the present 20-cent-a-ton royalty on coal production which goes to finance his union's welfare fund. The fund pays miners' pensions and insurance benefits.

Coal operators have refused to boost their labor costs. They have offered to renew their old miners' contract. It expired last July. But the operators are demanding some contract pledge against frequent strikes and, also, safeguards on welfare fund spending.

Lewis called off a 52-day strike last week. But his truce expires Dec. 1 and he has broadly hinted the walkout will be renewed then if his demands aren't granted.

A condition to Mr. Truman's naming a special fact-finding board, empowered to recommend terms, would be that Lewis extend his truce for at least 60 days. Lewis may turn this down.

Increase in Missouri in College Enrollments

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Missouri was one of 30 states showing an increase in college enrollments this fall.

Figures released by the office of education showed that despite a reduction in veterans, the Show-Me state had 4,781 more students than at the beginning of the 1948 school year. The state's total is 65,183. Neighboring states showing a decline in enrollment were Kansas, Iowa and Illinois.

Rutledge is Planning Appeal

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 17—(AP)—Dr. Robert C. Rutledge, serving a prison term on a second degree murder conviction, probably will appeal the case to the Iowa supreme court at its term in September, 1950.

This was announced by L. L. Scott, St. Louisan who heads a committee that raised $10,500 for the appeal, after he received a letter from R. S. Milner, Dr. Rutledge's attorney in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Dr. Rutledge is serving a 70-year term in the Iowa prison at Fort Madison for the slaying of Byron C. Hattman in a Cedar Rapids hotel room. Hattman had an illicit affair with the physician's wife.

Frigid Trend Develops on Farm Policies

Farm Bureau Not Invite Brannan To Give Address

By Ovid A. Martin

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Relations between the Democratic administration and the powerful American Farm Bureau Federation—once warm and cooperative—have turned frigid. The political consequences may be considerable.

Differences over government farm policies have become so sharp that the Federation has decided not to invite Secretary of Agriculture Brannan to speak at its annual convention in Chicago next month.

It long has been the custom of the Federation and other national farm organizations to ask the secretary of agriculture to address their meetings, as a sort of titular head of American agriculture. Four other major organizations are continuing the custom.

While relations have been growing cooler for some time, it has been the controversial farm plan advanced by Secretary Brannan that has brought the federation to a virtual "no speaking" attitude toward the administration.

Strong in Criticism

President Allan B. Kline of the federation has criticized the Brannan proposal as a political scheme to get votes of both farmers and consumers. He also has claimed that it would regiment farmers completely.

The Brannan plan is designed to assure farmers high returns and consumers cheaper food. Government cash payments to farmers would be the principal device for achieving such a dual goal.

The farm bureau and the Democratic administration started working closely together after Franklin D. Roosevelt became President in 1833. Both played big roles in getting precedent-breaking crop control laws through congress.

All through the thirties they cooperated on farm legislation and programs. For years, Federation officials were close advisers to such Brannan predecessors as Henry A. Wallace, Claude R. Wickard and Clinton P. Anderson.

Differences first started cropping up during the war in connection with farm price control and food subsidy policies. But they did not reach their present wide breach until Brannan put forth his plan last spring.

The split between the Federation and the Administration may have far-flung political consequences. The farm organization has big memberships both in the south and in the midwest.

While Brannan was left off the Federation program, Senator Anderson (D-NM) and Rep. Gore (D-Tenn), two congressional critics of the Brannan plan have been invited to speak.

A dinner meeting of the Sedalia Knife and Fork Club will be held this evening, starting at 7:00 o'clock in the Ambassador room of the Bothwell hotel.

The guest speakr will be Dr. Vernon Nash, vice-president of United World Federalists, Inc. The speaker is one of the world's keenest students of history and geography of all continents.

Dr. Nash was a college classmate of Rev. H. U. Campbell, pastor of the Fifth Street Methodist church, who is vice-president of the Knife and Fork club and will preside in th absence of the president, George H. Scruton, who is attending a press meeting in St. Louis. Rev. Campbell will introduce the speaker.

Two Deer at One Shot

Dr. Spalding Is Kiwanis Guest Speaker

Gives an Insight In U. S. Relations Toward Europeans

Dr. James Spalding, professor of religion and chaplain at the Missouri Valley college at Marshall, speaking on the topic, "America's Attitude Toward Europe's Problem" related many interesting facts about countries in Europe, while speaking before members of Sedalia Kiwanis club at their regular noon dinner meeting at the Bothwell hotel, today, with the club president, Bert Hathaway presiding.

Rev. Warren L. Botkin gave the invocation. Abe Rosenthal led the group in singing club songs. The speaker was introduced by Rev. H. U. Campbell. Floyd Lively is the program chairman for this month.

Further plans were made for National Kids' Day, which will be Saturday. The Sedalia Kiwanis are sponsoring a program for the kids of Sedalia. It was brought out at the meeting, since the next one falls on Thanksgiving, that the club would hold "Ladies' Night", this Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Bothwell hotel, at which time a dinner and program will be held for members and their wives, and guests. Ervin H. Robinson of Boonville, a Kiwanian attended today's meeting.

The board of directors re-elected Elmer E. Sterling as secretary for 1950.

"Most Powerful Nation"

Dr. Spalding said, "At the present time by all odds, we are the most powerful nation in the world. It is well for us to remember we did not simply acquire this power with our own hands, but God has given us natural resources. This nation under God has given us good things, and the fact God has given us these things, God expects something from us."

"We should understand this as we take our place in the community of nations," the speaker said. He related that we in America must realize that this nation stands under God, that we have not so completely fulfilled our mission that we can sit back complacently, but we must press forward in the light of our ideals.

The speaker spoke on Holland, England, France, Italy and Germany. He said Holland was the oldest democracy in the world, but since the war, the country is composed of two capitalistic governments.

Started During War

Speaking on England and the devaluation of the pound, he related it had to come, but said it didn't happen two months ago, but the devaluation started during the war, when England was fighting Germany without American assistance.

He said during the war, France was a country that was terribly disillusioned, and now their biggest problem is that they don't believe in anything, not even in themselves as a nation, the speaker related. He said he have to help France get hold of itself, and that they must have a re-birth of freedom.

In referring to Italy, he asserted that the country was over-populated, and there was tremendous poverty among its people.

Germany, Dr. Spalding said is causing a lot of fear from France and England today, because the country is able to compete with them in producing commodities.

"This nation under God must have a new birth of freedom in order that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth," the speaker said.

Expects About 75,000 Polio Cases in 1950

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said here last night Epidemologists expect about 75,000 cases of polio to be recorded in the nation next year.

He explained that would be between 27,000 and 30,000 more cases than were estimated for this year.

Dr. Van Riper said the disease is becoming more widespread despite heavy expenditure by the foundation and other agencies.

Reduce Federal Employes 62,955

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—An overall reduction of 62,955 federal employes in four months was reported today by a Senate-House committee, thanks to cuts in civilian employment by the military forces. Civilian employment in the executive branch of the government totaled 2,057,064 in September, a reduction of 33,045 from the previous month.

It was the fourth month in a row in which the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures has listed a drop in federal empolyes.

Announce Capture of The Linda Glucoft Slayer

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17—(AP)—Police announced the capture of Fred Stroble, sought in the Linda Glucoft slaying, in a downtown park today.

Sgt. W. T. Reid of the homicide squad said identification "is positive."

"We are questioning him now," said Reid. "I can tell you no more than that."

Stroble had been the object of an international search since six-year-old Linda was found, mutilated and strangled, in a rubbish heap two days ago.

Stroble was found in Pershing square, in the heart of the downtown district, frequented by the scores of old-timers who sun themselves by the hour.

"It made a good hiding place," said one policeman.

Deputy Police Chief Thad Brown told reporters that Stroble readily admitted his identity, and said he had just gotten off a bus from Ocean Park, a beach city 15 miles away.

He was spotted by Bill Miller, a towel service man, who called a traffic officer from a corner. Stroble did not resist arrest.

He was taken to the district attorney's office for questioning.

Throughout the west, a hunt for him had been going on since little Linda was found after an overnight disappearance. The hunt had gone into Mexico, and from scores of cities came reports that he had been seen in bars and on busses.

The FBI came into the hunt last night, with issuance of a federal fugitive warrant, and a formal complaint of murder also was filed in state courts.

Guam Struck By Typhoon

Thousands to Storm Shelters And Refuge in Caves

TOKYO, Nov. 17—(AP)—The air force weather bureau reported winds approaching 145 miles an hour battered the island of Guam late today.

The weather observers said they managed to get a "freak call" through to the island after regular communications went out. They said the connection did not last long enough to get damage reports.

Earlier reports from the island, where hundreds of American servicemen and civilian workers are stationed, said several buildings had been blown down. Winds at that time had not exceeded 90 miles an hour.

The typhoon, one of the worst in years in the Pacific, was centered 45 miles south of Guam and moving west northwest at about 17 miles an hour.

Weather observers here predicted the typhoon would be 300 miles northwest of Guam tomorrow afternoon. The storm covers a 360 mile radius.

(Last direct communication between the Associated Press bureau in San Francisco and its Guam correspondent said civil authorities on Guam had checked homes and business houses for safety measures before the storm struck.

(Thousands of Guamanians in villages moved to designated storm shelters. Many sought refuge in caves used by the Japanese to fight invading American forces during the war.)

Reject Meyers' Offer on Tax

Plan to Pay About $50,000 in Cash Unacceptable

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—The government has turned down an offer by former Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers to settle all the wartime tax claims against him for about $50,000 cash.

The offer was advanced several weeks ago by Meyers' attorneys.

It included a proposition that the former air force purchasing chief, now in prison and seeking parole, would plead guilty to a single misdeameanor count in connection with income tax filings if the justice department would drop projected felony prosecutions.

An income tax misdeameanor carries a maximum sentence of one year, where as a felony is punishable by as much as five years in prison.

The justice department and internal revenue bureau have declined to discuss the proposed settlement, but it was learned today that they have notified Meyers' counsel that the plan is not acceptable.

The exact amount of Meyers' tax liabilities is in dispute, but government sources, conceding the possibility of overlaps and duplications, have estimated that it might run as high as $400,000.

This would inculde the ex-general's 1941-46 personal income returns and income and excess profits taxes of Aviation Electric Corporation of Dayton, Ohio, plus interest and penalties.

Meyers is under a series of felony indictments at Baltimore in connection with his returns, and additional tax claims are pending against the Dayton firm which Meyers is alleged to have owned secretly during the war.

Meyers is now at Lorton, Va., reformatory, serving a 20 months to five year term for inducing an associate to testify falsely before a Senate committee about his wartime business connections.

Meyers lost his rank and was dropped from the army as a result of that conviction.

Dance Date of Elks Changed

Vice President Goes by Plane For Wedding to Mrs. Hadley

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—Vice President Barkley left by plane today for St. Louis where he will be married tomorrow to Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley.

The vice president was grinning broadly as he boarded an Eastern Airlines plane which is due in St. Louis at 3:14 p. m. (EST).

Responding to well wishers, he said he had a good feeling that a lot of people around the country wished him well.

Prepare to Open Gifts

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 17—(AP)—Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley hurried last minute preparations today for the wedding that will make her the second lady of the land.

Tomorrow at 11 a. m. (CST) she will be married to Vice President Alben W. Barkley.

She busied herself today with a trip to the hairdresser, greeting relatives and the many other details that go with a wedding.

Barkley was expected to arrive by plane this afternoon.

This evening the couple may get around to opening the many gifts jammed into Mrs. Hadley's small apartment.

The crowd of onlookers expected to gather outside St. John's Methodist church for the ceremony probably will find chilly weather. The forecast: Near freezing temperatures early tomorrow and partly cloudy skies.

Except for a limited number of newsmen, the ceremony will be witnessed by only 34 guests. All except William Vaughan, Barkley's civilian aide, are members of the family.

Mrs. Hadley was busy today greeting relatives arriving for the wedding and seeing to last-minute details. A trip to the hairdresser was on her schedule.

Among relatives arriving today were her daughter, Anne, a freshman at a New Orleans college; Mrs. Hadley's brother, William W. Rucker of West Palm Beach, Fla.; Barkley's daughters, Mrs. Max O. Truitt and Mrs. Douglas MacArthur II; and his son, David M. Barkley.

Mrs. Estel Rucker, mother of Mrs. Hadley, started out to do some errands this morning but her plans were upset by a traffic mishap.

A streetcar rstruck the rear of her automobile as she pulled away from the curb in front of the Hadley apartment. The impact knocked off the car's bumper.

"I'm not going to call a doctor because there's nothing the matter with me except that I am disgusted with myself as a driver," Mrs. Rucker said.

Yesterday Mrs. Hadley showed part of her trousseau to women with whom she formerly worked at Washington university and the Wabash railway.

Girl of Seven Is Kidnaped And Slain

Body Found in a Canal Today Near Burley, Idaho

BURLEY, Idaho, Nov. 17—(AP)—The body of Glenda Joyce Brisbois was found today in a canal and Sheriff Saul H. Clark said the seven-year-old girl was murdered.

The sheriff said also that a car which may carry the girl's abductor is believed cornered in a maze of little-used roads in the general vicinity of Malta and Bridge, Idaho.

Clark said Glenda's body was mutilated. It was found in a canal one mile southeast of here this morning. He said it had not yet been determined definitely whether the girl had been raped.

Car Spotted From Air

Clark said a dark car had been "spotted intermittently" from the air by one of the planes which had been searching for the girl.

The plane reported that at one time the car stopped and a man wearing a white or light colored shirt got out.

Radio-equipped state police and sheriff's cars were rushed into the area in an effort to blockade all exits from the vicinity.

Officers in northern Utah have been asked to blockade highways there, Clark said, in the event the car should be able to reach Stervell and then make its way southward on U. S. Highway 30-south.

The blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bribois was last seen last night at 5:30 o'clock when she reportedly entered a dark automobile near her home.

The girl had been the object of one of the most extensive searches in recent southern Idaho history. Sheriff Saul H. Clark had expressed fears Glenda had been kidnapped.

Shah to Ask Increased Aid

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The Shah of Iran said today he "certainly" will propose to President Truman an increase in American military aid to his country.

"Iran is important to the peace of the world and especially to the security of the middle east," the Shah said in a news conference.

The youthful Shah, who arrived yesterday for a month's good will visit, said also:

1. Iran's relations with its big neighbor, Soviet Russia, "have improved a little lately." The Iranians "are always willing to be friendly with our neighbors, but always on a basis of mutual respect and independence."

2. Iran is interested in the future creation of a middle eastern defense pact, like the North Atlantic treaty, but the time is "a little too early." The country's economy should be strengthened first.

3. What has impressed him about the United States thus far is "the well being of your people." He said "they have happy faces, are well attired and look friendly."

4. He is not looking for a bride during his stay here. The Shah is 30 and matrimonially eligible since divorcing the former Queen Fawzia, a sister of the King of Egypt.

A Sedalian, W. F. Brown, prosecuting attorney and a former Sedalian, Lllsworth Green, secretary of Chamber of Commerce in Kansas City, Kas., will be on television over WDAF, between 8:00 and 8:30 o'clock, Saturday night, in connection with a China-Burma-India veterans executive meeting that day, of which Brown and Green are members.

On the program, which will deal with the veterans' opinion of Communistic penetration in Asia, will be five persons, probably including Mrs. Fred Merritt, wife of Judge Advocate of Illinois. Mrs. Merritt is an English girl and was born in India.

Judge Advocate and Mrs. Merritt will arrive in Sedalia, Friday evening and will be dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Brown at the Old Missouri Homestead, before continuing on to Kansas City.

His physician, Dr. Albert C. Herring, said he and his colleagues "are amazed at the bishop's fortitude and endurance, considering the critical condition he has been for the last five days."

Try Schooner Trip to Alaska

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A Missourian is among four persons who embarked today on a 15,000 mile voyage to Alaska in a home-made schooner.

William Keller, 25, Nevada, Mo., a graduate student at the University of Minnesota, was aboard the 46-foot schooner as it sailed down the Mississippi river on the first leg of the journey.

The other three were Warren Christianson, 29, St. Paul, his wife Edith, and Dick Richards, 27, Winchester, Ky.

Christianson, builder of the schooner, plans to open a law office in Alaska when the journey is completed next summer. Kellar and Richards went along for the adventure.

Eleven Million Cut Made in Appropriation

Senate Balances Budget by Slash In House Figures

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Senate appropriators balanced the state budget today by whacking more than 011,000,000 from house figures.

A postwar reserve fund bill for new buildings at state institutions was cut almost $5,000,000 under house figures. That left $12,893,717 in the bill.

A catchall appropriation bill for many state agencies was cut almost $7,000,000 to leave $3,449,112 in the bill.

The new figures came from a senate appropriations committee which said repeatedly its main job was to balance the budget. The committee recommendations will be up for senate approval next week, then will head for conference committee adjustment between the two houses.

One of the biggest lashes was in a controversial $8,000,000 item for state aid to public schools as allowed by the house. The senate committee trimmed that to $2,500,000 from postwar funds—with a special proviso.

Some Funds Tied Up

The actual appropriation from the postwar fund will be lessened by whatever amount is made available for school aid from a fire insurance fine fund of $2,090,000. Disposition of this money is tied up in a ease pending before the state supreme court.

All the postwar funds for state institutions also were cut sharply. But both the state schools and the hospitals were left with substantial amounts for new buildings and repairs.

The committee also took steps to maintain direct relief and aid to dependent children payments at their present levels, giving the welfare division $1,100,000 more for relief and $250,000 more for ADC.

Be Tight Squeeze

The figures indicated it will be a close shave for the state to keep within its expected general revenue for the two year period ending June 30, 1951. Estimated general revenue is approximately $140,000,000.

The house went over that figure by almost $7,000,000. But the senate committee cut the catchall bill back enough to total general revenue appropriations will amount to $139,860,031 if the senate committee figures are ac-

Airforce Planes Collide

Four of 22 on Them Survive; One Down Ablaze Other in Mud

By John R. Ward

STOCKTON, Calif., Nov. 17—(AP)—Two Airforce superforts collided 26,000 feet above Stockton at midnight. One fell in flames. The tail of the other fell off and it crashed in the mud.

Four of the 22 men aboard were saved.

Seven were found dead in the wreckage.

Eleven are missing.

Detailed checking eliminated one survivor report by Lodi, Calif. police. The four survivors—all at the Navy Annex of the Stockton supply depot after the treatment for minor injuries—are:

Lt. Warren F. Sharrock, whose home, ironically, is only 26 miles east of Stockton in the Sierra foothills.

Pvt. Keith R. Burns, 19, Boise, Idaho, apparently the only survivor of the burning plane.

Tech. Sgt. Frank D. Schmidt, Megley, Ohio, engineer of the plane whose wife and daughter are at Spokane.

Sgt. Robert S. Kluge, Spokane.

Burned on Levee

The sheriff's office field party radioed three bodies had been taken from the plane that burned on a McDonald island levee on the San Joaquin river in the delta nine miles west of here.

State highway patrolman Bill Alott said four bodies were taken from the plant that crashed six feet deep into the mud on the Ridge tract two miles north and across the San Joaquin.

The wings of this plane were intact, but the tail assembly had collapsed.

A radio from the field party at this plane ordered all spectators cleared from the area because of high octane gasoline fumes.

Hamilton Field, 25 miles north of San Francisco, said the plane that burned was from the 326th squadron. The other was from the 325th. Both were part of the 92nd bombardment group at Spokane, Wash., air force base.

Collided in Fog

First definite word of the crash, in a fog, came from one of the survivors, Lt. Warren F. Snarrock, whose home is only 26 miles from Stockton. The lieutenant staggered into Edward Kenyon's King Island fishing resort bleeding from a head injury.

"The other plane ran smack into us," he gasped.

The Kenyons heard the crash. They were out looking for the flames in the fog when Sharrock arrived.

Soon afterward the San Joaquin sheriff's office reported the finding of two enlisted men alive. One was Pvt. Keith R. Burns, 19, of Boise, Idaho. The other was Tech. Sgt. B. Schmidt of Megley, Ohio.

The Lodi, Calif., police department said its men had picked up four other enlisted men.

One of those was Sgt. Robert S. Kluge, 26, of Spokane, who said he parachuted from the ship later found stuck in the mud. He too, reached a King Isand fishing resort, and called the sheriff's office at Stockton, one of the first to report the disaster.

Rush to Rescue

A few minutes later a gunner called into the sheriff's office, too excited to give his name. He said he had bailed out of one of the planes.

Girls Crash The Men's Barracks

But an MP Stands Guard as Army Gives USO Girls On-Spot Training

IT'S THE ARMY, GIRLS—USO hostesses Alice Lutz (left) of Methuen, Mass., and Dorothy Bryant, Lawrence, Mass., get an earful of that 6 a. m. bugle from Pvt. Arthur Lawler.

By NEA Service

FORT DEVENS, Mass.—(NEA)—The hardest gate for any girl to crash is the entrance of the men's barracks on a military post. For any girl, that is, except a strawberry blonde named Alice Lutz and 199 other New England young ladies.

Alice and company not only crashed the gate—they took it over. The army bowed to femininity and put shades on the windows, a frippery unheard of in male barracks. There was also a large "Off Limits" sign and an equally large MP at the front door.

The girls were some of the new crop of USO hostesses taking over for wartime volunteers who have become "too old" for today's teenage servicemen. And for the first time in either Army or USO history, they were getting on-the-spot training at a military post to see what Army life is like and how USO girls should behave, look, talk and dress while on duty.

• • •

The Army gave it to them straight. In four wooden barracks, unused since wartime, the 200 girls from three New England states slept on GI cots. They made up by distorted tin mirror and bathed i nthe tin GI shower.

Miss Lutz, who comes from bathed in the tin GI shower. Devens about once a week with 40 other girls from nearby Lawrence from service dances, led the group as typical junior hostess. As such, she was squired by Pvt. George Preisinger, Jr., of Pittsburgh, a 20-year-old company clerk who had been picked as the post's typical GI.

The visit was not all work It included a football game and a harvest ball. The indoctrination courses wound up with a charm clinic and fahion show, which the GIs were allowed to witness.

Reveille was at 6 a. m., even for strawberry blondes.

TYPICAL—Alice Lutz, "Miss USO Hospitality" shares the harvest ball spotlight with Pvt. Milton Woods of Deer Park, Ohio during a 200-girl invasion of Fort Devens, Massachusetts.

In his suit filed in the circuit court, the Kansas City insurance man said he tripped on the concrete cuspidor as he was leaving an elevator in a downtown hotel in which the Shrine headquarters are located. The spitoon, he contends, had been moved from its traditional location to a spot near the elevators.

Injuries he says he suffered when he tripped include:

Lacerations on the face, elbows, hands, knees and body; an impaired nervous system; injuried internal organs; and permanent harm to his general health and physical strength.

Kansas City Fire Station Damaged $500 By Fire

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17—(AP)—A fire station caught fire here Wednesday.

Firemen discovered flames streaking up the wall of a frame building used for storage of old hose at the rear of the station. They put the blaze out in 20 minutes.

Damage was estimated at $500.

Chester W. McGrury, assistant fire chief, reluctantly listed the cause as flames from the firemen's trash burner.

Alert Operator Saves A Woman

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Nov. 17—(AP)—An alert telephone operator received credit Wednesday for saving a housewife whose life was threatened by a pan of burning fish.

Early today Miss Nora Wells, night chief telephone operator, noticed a switchboard light that indicated a telephone receiver had been off its cradle for a long time. Plugging into the line, she faintly detected a person coughing. Then she called police.

The officers found Mrs. Nettie Smith, 39, lying unconscious on the floor near her telephone. Her house was filled with smoke.

After she had been taken to a hospital, the police checked further and discovered a pan of fish on a lighted stove. The fish had been burned to a crisp, emitting smoke that police said had filled the residence to the extent a seriously endangering Mrs. Smith's life.

The housewife had apparently placed the pan of fish on the stove yesterday afternoon, and suffered a fainting spell, police theorized. In falling, they said, it appeared that she had knocked the telephone receiver off its rest.

The officers said the action of the operator, a veteran of 22 years' service, probably saved Mrs. Smith's life. Mrs. Smith was considered out of danger at a hospital where she was being treated for smoke suffocation.

Ohio Governor Will Not Seek Taf'ts Seat

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 17—(AP)—Ohio's Democratic Governor, Frank J. Lausche, stated definitely Wednesday that he would not seek the U. S. Senate seat now held by Republican Robt. A. Taft.

His announcement was made in a telegram to a labor delegation which on Monday asked him to seek his party's nomination for senator in 1950.

Taft already is campaigning and is regarded as virtually certain to win renomination. Lausche would have stood a good chance to win the Democratic nomination.

Cool That Battery!

NEW YORK—(AP)—Hearing aid batteries should be kept in the refrigerator. That is the caution from one of the country's biggest dry cell battery makers. Winter or summer, when not in use, surplus dry cell "A" batteries for hearing aids will last longer when kept at about the 45 degree Fahrenheit temperature of the average refrigerator, according to W. S. Allen, general manager of the electrical division of Olin Industries, Inc.

The batteries should also be kept in a tightly sealed glass container which will reduce humidity, he said. It is a good idea to let a battery rest from two to three times longer than it is used. It has a power to recuperate. A full day's use is the maximum for any "A" battery to be used without rotation, Mr. Allen said.

Book Week at Public Library

Book Week got off to a flying start at the Sedalia Public Library last Saturday, with a circulation of 762 books for the day. The weekly Story Hour at 10:00 a. m. on Saturday initiated the observance of this annual celebration, which opened November 13 and continues through November 19.

This is the thirty-first national observance of Book Week and during this period the importance of the reading habit for children will be re-emphasized. Years ago, reading held first place as a leisure-time activity for young people, but today we find it competing with many other forms of entertainment. To offset this trend modern publishers are producing more attractive books than ever before in the history of publishing.

Book Week slogan for this year is "Make friends with books." Displays and new books will highlight the week's activities at the Public Library and the week following many new books will be available to library patrons, both adults and children.

The Sedalia Public Library is open Monday through Friday from 11:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. and on Saturday from 10:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m. The Children's Department closes each week-day at 6:00 p. m. Sunday hours are from 2:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m. for reading and reference purposes.

Big Air Rescue Search on For B-29 Bomber

Twenty Aboard When it Crash-Landed in Sea

HAMILTON, Berumda, Nov. 17—(AP)—The biggest peacetime air rescue search in history was underway today for a lost B-29 bomber which ran out of fuel and crashlanded in the sea somewhere near Bermuda yesterday. Twenty U. S. airmen were on board.

Nearly 100 air force, navy and coast guard planes from bases all along the Atlantic seaboard crisscrossed above Bermuda's surrounding waters hoping for a sight of the stricken bomber or bobbing liferafts.

First search patrols yesterday afternoon were fruitless.

The last word from the superfortress, whose navigation instruments failed on a flight to England, was a radio message: Going to ditch in five minutes.

After that message yesterday morning a U. S. coast guard vessel heard weak SOS signals — spurring hopes that the crewmen had taken to rubber life rafts equipped with automatic wireless distress signalers.

Into Stormy Weather

The plane, part of a B-29 group enroute to England from March Air Base, California, lost its way when its radio navigation equipment failed and it encountered bad weather. U. S. officials at Kindley Air Base here thought it probably went down 150 miles southwest or northeast of Bermuda.

The U. S. air force, navy and coast guard and the royal navy all joined in the search. Planes came from nine American bases. A B-29 group returning from England, and another enroute there from California, also were drafted into the search. The missing bomber was from the second squadron of the 22nd Bombardment Group.

The bomber was due in Bermuda at 8:10 a. m. yesterday (7:10 a. m. EST). At 7:46 a. m. the pilot radioed that he could not fix his position because his radio navigation equipment had failed and bad weather prevented his taking astronomical sights.

Fail to Contact

Kindlay Air Base gave the plane a radio bearing. Two search planes went out to act as guides, but were unable to make contact.

At 8:40 a. m. the B-29 pilot radioed he had enough gas left for two hours flying at maximum speed. At 11:45 a. m. he sent his last message heard by Kindley base, that he was preparing to ditch the plane in five minutes.

Twenty-three air force, navy and coast guard planes patrolled yesterday over more than 30,000 square miles of ocean, but found no trace of the bomber. The fleet of air searchers, along with two British navy ships and a U. S. Coast Guard cutter today planned to patrol over another 108,000 square miles.

The plane, carrying five officers and 15 enlisted men, was commanded by Lieut. Col. John Grable, Jr., of March Air Base.

Eleven Million Cut Made in Appropriation

cepted by both houses.

Along with its slashes, the senators added some items. They gave the University of Missouri $100,000 for the state crippled children service, which has had a heavy drain on it in this polio year.

Another $100,000 went to the University of Missouri veterinary clinic and for livestock disease research. The extra money is designed to put the university's new veterinary school n positon to be accredited wth top ranking schools.

Also whacked out of the catchall bill was $500,000 state aid for school districts whose buildings are destroyed by fire and $234,000 for adult education under the state department of education.

Are Told to Trim

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 17.—(AP)—State schools and hospitals were told today to trim their sails a little.

That was the effect of senate appropriations committee action cutting big slices from the buildings program of all the state institutions.

In almost every case the senate committee left the institutions with something to go on. But they won't be able to spend as much from postwar reserve funds as they had planned.

Committee members were not here today, but they indicated at earlier hearings they thought some buildings should be smaller or less expensive and some items should be eliminated entirely.

The senate committee—whose recommendations will be up for senate approval next week—cut almost $5,000,000 from house post war figures, leaving $12,893,717 worth of repairs and construction in the bill.

The house had over-appropriated available postwar funds by almost $2,000,000. But the senate committee trimmed the total back to the amount available and left a little balance besides.

Biggest single item slashed out of the bill was $958,900 to put the Higginsville Confederate Home in shape to become a home for senile patients who now crowd state hospitals. The senate committee made no provision for a separate institution for such persons, but gave all the state hospitals money for repairs.

Answer in 'Experience'

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 17.—(AP)—"Your experience provides the answer."

That was the American Legion's reply—spoken kindly through its commander—to 11-year-old Laurence Goldstein's heart-touching question:

"Why did my daddy die?"

The puzzled little Jewish fellow put the query to his mother after he had been attacked by a group of older boys who called him "Jew," spat on him and beat and kicked him into the gutter.

Maurice couldn't understand why he should be so treated when his father died a war hero while serving with the 2nd armored infantry, 41st division.

Neither could his mother, Mrs. E. Sylvia Goldstein. She pleaded with the world yesterday, through the Lynn Item, to give her the answer to the boy's question.

Commander George H. Craig gave his answer in Indianapolis yesterday:

"You have been the victim of an isolated instance of hatred," he said.

"Your experience provides the answer why your daddy died. . . . He could not stand by and condone mass mistreatment of human ings.

"There were evil men who tried to enslave all the free people in the world. Your father went to war to prevent the wholesale destruction of human rights and freedom.

"All true Americans, whether Catholics, Protestants or Jews, fought to re-establish international law so such outrages should not go unpunished.

"Because such brave men as your father died, America today remains free and our minorities protected."

The Commander told Maurice that "the law and public opinion are on your side and that every minority in our land who can always get relief from oppression."

And to prove that there's truth in those statements, the police and the local chapter of B'Nai B'rith are trying to track down the hoodlums.

Young Maurice made a strike against injustice—like his father—when he was attacked. He "stuck it out" against his assailants until he was pummeled into the gutter.

Canary Talks

BUNBURG, Australia—(AP)—Apparently getting fed up with just whistling, a male canary has learned to talk, reports the Australian News Bureau. Vocabulary so far is limited to two words—"pretty boy"—but enunciation is improving. The trick was picked up from a parrot in a nearby cage.

The bird is owned by 16-year-old Joe Flynn.

Bomb Smash Devastating

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A single, well-placed atom bomb could smash the heart of the nation's capital, the experts believe.

Every building within a half mile radius of a bomb burst would be damaged and made unusable. Fires would sweep an area of many square miles.

This picture of what might happen is drawn in a report prepared by the staff of the atomic energy commission. It is the first government study of the probable effects of an atom bomb explosion over an American city.

A possible answer, the report says, would be the creation of an adequate radar warning system and bomb-proof shelters. That would help keep down casualties.

To minimize destruction, the report suggests dispersing government buildings within the city and its outskirts. It advises spreading departments at least two miles apart.

These estimates are based on the assumption that the old-type bomb, similar to those dropped on Japan during the war, would be used. Newer, more powerful bombs now available would cause far more damage.

The report, first described in a copyright article by the Washington Post and later confirmed by the AEC, was given to the National Security Council on Nov. 4. The council is the nation's top defense agency composed of heads of departments and reporting to the President.

Airforce Planes Collide

iff's deputies from four counties circled for nearly three hours across the fields and streams of the delta country before they found the wreckage of both planes.

The still burning craft from the 326th squadron was sighted first. The bodies of its soldier crewmen were charring in the blaze. The last four of its serial marks of numbers — 6364 —were the only marks of identification.

But from this the Spokane air base was able to determine it was one of 13 which started out at 3 p. m. yesterday on a round-robin flight (no landings and return to home base) over Sacramento, San Francisco, Stockton and Salt Lake City. They were at 26,000 feet most of the time.

Searchers were led by a a C-54 from the Fairfield-Suisun air force base which is located near the delta country. It flew through the fog with a scant 200 feet visibility — just enough to see the gound.

Capt. K. D. McFarland, information officer of the Spokane air force base, said the other touring planes would not all complete the round robin as planned.

They encountered bad weather. Three put down at Hill field near Ogden, Utah, another landed at McClellan air force base near Sacramento. The rest, McFarland said, were still in the air early today without reaching a decision on landing.

The sheriff's office said that as far as it knew Burns was the only survivor of the burned plane. It announced two bodies had been recovered from the wreckage.

All named survivors were treated at Stockton emergency hospital briefly for minor injuries before being taken on to undisclosed destinations.

Newsmen were kept from them while they were here, but persons who said they heard the airmen discussing the collision reported the fliers said five of the planes were flying in a single formation when one got out of line.

"And that was it," one of them reportedly added.

Hopes For a Balanced 1950 Circuit

Springfield, Mo., And Enid, Okla. Are New Entries

By Skipper Patrick

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 17—(AP)—Two cities that once failed as professional sites are the hopes of the Western Association for a balanced circuit in 1950.

New entries in the Class C loop are Springfield, Mo., granted a new franchise when Leavenworth, Kas., was expelled and Enid, Okla., replacing Fort Smith, Ark.

Rounding out the association roster next summer will be St. Joseph and Joplin in Missouri, Muskogee, Okla., and the Kansas sites of Topeka, Salina and Hutchinson.

As of today, plans for successful teams at Springfield and Enid are in the organizing stages.

Franchise Dispute

Springfield, which failed to gain membership last year when minor league commissioner George Trautman ruled in favor of Leavenworth in a franchise dispute, has had the backing of the Chicago Cubs since 1947.

Enid got the berth held by Fort Smith for a dozen years when New York Giant officials decided the move would be a financial improvement for their organization.

Springfield was a member of the Western Association from 1931 through 1942. During the wartime blackout of many baseball leagues the St. Louis Cardinals moved their affiliation from Springfield to St. Joseph.

The Cubs and the Springfield backers — Springfield Memorial Baseball Association, Inc. — believe they have a natural tie-in for lacal interest. Cub First Baseman Preston Ward, Catcher Mickey Owen and Shortstop Roy Smalley all are Springfield boys.

Invested $25,000

The Chicago club invested $25,000 in Springfield's baseball plans in 1947, moved their club from Hutchinson here in 1948 when the Kansas park was destroyed by a storm, and went down fighting against leavenworth promoters for the franchise last year.

Springfield presently has a park with a seating capacity of about 1,400, located off the bus line and surrounded by unpaved streets.

Enid was a Western Association member in 109 and 1910, again in 1920-23, both times financial losers. It had an entry in the old Southwestern League in 1924-25. Since that time Enid has enjoyed great success in semi-pro baseball. The town has had four National Baseball Congress champion.

Lack of Night Baseball

The New York Giants and local fans believe early financial difficulties in professional ball were due to the lack of night baseball. They feel it will pay off under the lights.

The Enid park will seat 3,000 easily, 4,000 jam packed.

Last night the Enid City Commission bought the Chamber of Commerce's baseball plant for $1.00.

The commission also authorized the leasing of the park's playing field for three years. The ground is owned by a group of citizens.

The Chamber of Commerce will maintain the park's upkeep for three years. It will be managed by the city.

Sec' Sawyer Says 'Business is Good'

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17—(AP)—"Business is good."

That was the word from Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, who arrived here Wednesday to open a Belgium trade exhibit.

In an interview he explained that strikes in steel and coal had thrown a body block to business, but that the story he heard from businessmen on his ear-to-the-ground tour of country was "they're making things and the people are buying them."

"When these strikes are settled," he added, "I believe business will resume its upward trend."

As to production he said some of the "pipelines are filled and we are encountering a buyers' market. As one man told me, 'businessmen have got to get a little busier to sell their goods.'"

Sawyer, former ambassador to Belgium, and Baron Robert Silvercruys, Belgium ambassador to the United States, will opened the trade exhibit late today.

Cab Driver Guilty Of Manslaughter

ATLANTA, Nov. 17—(AP)—Hugh D. Gravitt, 29, driver of an automobile that fatally injured author Margaret Mitchell, was convicted of involuntary manslaughter on Wednesday.

A superior court jury required less than an hour to find the slim, bespectacled former taxicab driver guilty. It recommended a jail sentence of 12 to 18 months.

Judge Walter C. Hendricks delayed sentence until tomorrow. He did so at the request of Gravitt's attorney who said he will appeal the verdict.

Miss Mitchell, author of the world best seller, "Gone With The Wind," was struck by Gravitt's car the night of August 11.

Gravitt, who admitted he had a bottle of beer four hours previously, claimed the accident unavoidable.

The cabbie and his lawyer claimed he was a victim of persecution by newspapers and politicians because of Miss Mitchell's fame. But assistant solicitor general Bob Blackwood urged the jury to forget the names of those involved.

St Louis Romeo Lands In Jail, Juliet Freed

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 17—(AP)—The Juliet of a city jail drama was freed Wednesday but the Romeo landed in a cell instead.

Police said a man identified as John A. Crowl was arrested outside the jail after he had sounded a musical horn on his car and flashed a spotlight on an upper floor of the building.

Police investigated and found a woman prisoner in turn had been dropping love notes to Crowl as he stood on the jail lawn.

Crowl was held without charge pending further investigation. The woman, Patricia Fitzpatrick, was released on probation after a plea of guilty to a charge of fraudulently passing a check.

Finds $5,000; Turns Down $1 Reward

Mrs. Katherine Hinkel (above), a clerk at the Chicago municipal airport's magazine stand, demonstrates how she turned down the one dollar reward offered her after she found a wallet containing $5,000 and saw to it that it was returned to the owner. "Why that's not . . ." Mrs. Hinkel started to say when offered the dollar by the wallet's owner. He then snatched the dollar and strode away. What she intended to say was, "Why that's not necessary. Maybe you can do the same sometime for someone else." (AP Wirephoto)

Howell County Treasurer Is Found Guilty

Two-Year Sentence For Embezzlemet Of Funds From Office

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Nov. 17—(AP)—Paul McGoldrick, former treasurer of Howell county, was sentenced to 2 years Wednesday after a circuit court jury found him guilty of embezzling funds from the office.

The jury, which had spent two days and half listening to testimony in the case, deliberated half an hour, returning the verdict shortly after 3 p. m.

Judge Disqualified Self

Sentence was pronounced by Circuit Judge Randolph Weber of poplar Bluff, who sat on the case after Judge Gordon Dorris had disqualified himself.

The defendant only hung his head when the sentence was announced. He made no statement.

McGoldrick, serving his first term as treasurer, resigned last March 22 after the county court reported a shortage of $15,250.95 in his accounts. An embezzlement charge was filed against him on April 1.

His brother, Harry McGoldrick, who had preceded him in the office and was serving as deputy treasurer, was arrested at the same time.

Both brothers were accused of embezzling $15,250.95 from January 1, 1947, to January 8, 1949. In addition, Harry McGoldrick was charged with embezzlement of $4,288.15 from May 1, 1944 to December 31, 1946 when he left office.

Brother's Trial Is Next

Harry McGoldrick's trial is the next one docketed in circuit court.

In the final arguments the state contended evidence had shown that a shortage of more than $10,000 had existed in Paul McGoldrick's office at the time of the audit. Harold Lincoln, Springfield attorney assisting the state, said a $1,000 check on county funds had been cashed at the West Plains bank by the defendant. Lincoln said this alone was enough to find him guilty of embezzlement.

Defense Attorneys A. W. Landis and Will H. D. Green claimed the prosecution based its case on a check written by Paul McGoldrick; that an auditor was unable to say it had been deposited in a bank and on four missing checks which the state could not say were written by McGoldrick.

"Uncertain Facts"

They said these "uncertain facts" were not enough to convict McGoldrick without reasonable doubt.

Landis and Green also referred to the fact that Prosecutor Esco Kell was assisted in the case by Frank W. Hays, Sedalia, an assistant attorney general, and Lincoln, a private attorney.

"There is a mouse in the meal somewhere," Landis said, "and I tell you that at no time did the prosecution mention who was to pay the salary of the private lawyer to come down into this case."

Fire Inspection For Missouri Hospitals

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 17—(AP)—Inspection of Missouri's 189 hospitals for fire hazards will start in a few weeks, Leonard S. Poor announced.

He is assistant manager of the Missouri Inspection Bureau, St. Louis. The program was planned at a two day meeting here for representatives of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, Insurance Company executives and fire prevention experts.

Poor said the inspection will take about a year. The Missouri program—part of a nationwide fire safety campaign—will be under the direction of Paul W. Terry, general manager of the Missouri Inspection Bureau.

Carthage Holdup Man Is Captured

CARTHAGE, Mo., Nov. 17—(AP)—Sharp eyed children brought about the arrest last night of a man who they told police had robbed a grocery store of $1,000 in currency and checks.

Patrolman Charles Earl captured the man, who gave his name as Irwin D. Jarvis, 52, of (845 North Main) Springfield, Mo., on a downtown street. He was held for investigation of the robbery of the neighborhood grocery store operated by Don Jones and Pat Patton. Earl said the currency and checks were recovered and two loaded revolvers were taken from Jarvis.

Jones, Patton, his wife and their two children, Patty Patton, 10, and Jerry Patton, 8, were accosted by a gunman as they left the store at closing time. He forced them to open the safe, then told them to drive away and leave the door unlocked.

They drove to the police station and gave the alarm. Then they started to drive home. Just half a block off the town square Patty and Jerry spotted Jarvis sitting in a car.

Once more the Pattons raced to the police station and gave an alarm. Earl and Patrolman Bill Rucker arrested Jarvis, who said he had been living in a tourist cabin at Joplin recently. He said he was a salesman for the Green Motor company in Springfield.

Police quoted Jarvis as saying he had served a prison term in Texas.

S-C Tigers End 1949 Schedule Friday Night

Local Gridders Will Play a Post Season Game November 23

Coach Ralph 'Stub" Dow said his Smith-Cotton Tiger squad, undisputed champions of Central Missouri Conference, "were in pretty good shape for the North Kansas City game this Friday night," which will be the last scheduled game of the season for the local gridders.

The kick-off time will be 8:00 o'clock at the North Kansas City stadium, just across the bridge from Kansas City, is the route to travel.

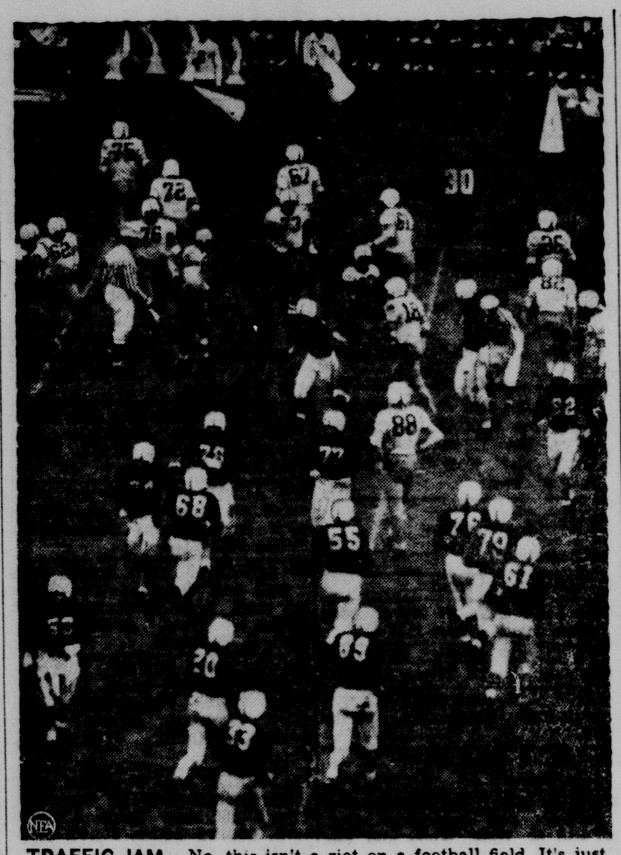
Last season, the Tigers beat North Kansas City with a 20 to 6 score. The local footballers will fold up their 1949 gridiron season after they play the Columbia Kewpies at Columbia, in the third annual Show-Me Bowl game. This is the second consecutive year, the Tigers have been invited to participate in this annual event, and they won the encounter last year over Raytown.

Depart at 1:00 p. m.

The local aggregation, consisting of 29 Tigers, Coach Dow and Coach Howard Glavin, and manager, Cecil Monsees, will leave for North Kansas City Friday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock from the high school.

The S-C gridders have been practicing every afternoon, and went through "skull" practice, Tuesday night. The team is scheduled for a light workout this afternoon.

The starting line-up will be: Mymon Herrick, le; Billy Wheeler, lt; Loyd Young, lg; Donnie Dowdy, c; Delbert Bryant, rg; Charles Phillips, rt; Leo Eickhoff, re; Gene Dowdy, qb; Donald Pummell, rhb; Dale Ruffin, lhb; and Bob Ray, fb.



TRAFFIC JAM—No, this isn't a riot on a football field. It's just a routine shift under the platoon system as the ball changes hands in the Yale-Brown game in the Bowl. Plus the officials there are 47 men on the gridiron, the others being outside the camera's range. The Bruins, in white jerseys, beat the Elis, 14-0

Okla. Hunters Kill 120 Quail

NEVADA, Mo., Nov. 17—(AP)—Two Oklahoma City hunters arrested with 120 Missouri quail are out on $500 bond each, awaiting trial in magistrate court here Friday.

The men are Glen C. Morrison and Frank J. Kune, who were arrested Sunday night as they left a tourist camp here by conservation agent Lawrence Garrett. He found 120 dressed and frozen quail in their possession.

They said they had hunted since last Thursday with their two dogs and had been accompanied by two other hunters who left Friday to attend last week's Oklahoma-Missouri football game at Columbia and that part of the quail belonged to the other two men.

The bond was set when they were taken before Probate Judge H. A. Kelso of Nevada. The hunters possessed out-of-state licenses.

A hunter in Missouri legally can shoot 10 quail a day, and have no more than 10 in possession.

'Gals' Beat The 'Guys' In a Tough Grid Game

SEATTLE, Nov. 17—(AP)— The Delta Gamma sorority and the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity at the University of Washington played a touch football game yesterday as the result of the gals' challenge.

The gals won, 14-7.

The sorority sisters were clad in levis and sweatshirts. The guys gagged it up by appearing in their mothers' cast-off dresses.

The men tried the old Flying Wedge with darkness threatening and the score against them. But a girl who had a little experience at breaking up huddles wriggled through the mass formation and touched the ball carrier to end the game.

It was a clean game — only two penalties. One was for illegal use of the hands. The other was for offensive holding. Neither was called against the sorority.

Oregon State Has Lineman Of The Week

Stanley McGuire The Spark Which Helped Beat Michigan State

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—(AP)—A lad from Oregon State in the Pacific northwest is this week's lineman of the week. He is Stanley McGuire, a 192-pound end who stands five feet, 11 inches.

McGuire won the honor yesterday in weekly Associated Press poll on the basis of his feats in sparking Oregon State to an upset 25-20 victory over Michigan State.

McGuire played about 55 minutes of the game, both on offense and defense, and was the key man in the upset.

"He stood out like a lighthouse in a storm," declared George Bertz, sports editor of the Portland, Ore. Journal.

Many Individual Feats

"His individual feats were a 32-yard place kick for a field goal; he blocked a punt for an automatic safety; he caught one 36-yard forward pass that led to a touchdown and dumped Michigan State runners several times for losses. In addition, his blocking was a factor in two sweeps around his right end for Oregon State touchdowns."

Another Pacific coast conference end, Bob Wilkinson of UCLA, was prominent in the voting. Wilkinson caught five passes for 136 yards and three touchdowns as UCLA dumped Washington, 47-26. A 199-pounder, he has so far caught 21 passes for 487 yards, breaking the old UCLA mark of 374 yards set by Burr Baldwin in 1946.

Leon Hart, Notre Dame end who won the lineman of the week award last week, received high praise for his work against North Carolina.

Jim Owens, Oklahoma end, and Ben Procter, Texas end, were two other wingmen who received special citations for their play against Missouri and Texas Christian, respectively.

Others Are Impressive

Tackles who turned in impressive performances were Charles Bailey, Dartmouth, who constantly smeared Cornell plays, thus helping immensely in Dartmouth's surprise 16-7 victory over the Big Red, and Wade Walker, Oklahoma, who played a whale of a game against Missouri.

Jack Lininger, Ohio State, and Bill Gosselin, Arizona State at Tempe, were the centers pointed out. Lininger's all-around play was outstanding as Ohio State rallied to beat Illinois.

Other nominations include:

Ends—Bob Moorman, Texas Christian; Terry Downs, Baylor.

Tackles—Harold Kilman, Texas Christian.

Guards—Danny Wolfe, Texas.

Centers—Joe Watson, Rice; Dick Hightower, Southern Methodist.

Missouri is a T. D. Favorite Over Kansas

Last Year Tigers Sweated Out a 21-7 Decision

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17—(AP)—Missouri is a touchdown favorite over Kansas in their traditional football game at Lawrence, Kas., Saturday, but you can throw the form chart out the window on this one.

There's been many an upset in this series, dating back to 1891, and the 58th game may be no exception.

Kansas was rated a slight favorite in 1938 and Missouri won 13-7. Missouri had the pre-game nod in 1946 and again in 1947 and each time Kansas won, by scores of 20-19 and 20-14.

Last year Missouri was supposed to win much as it pleased and yet the Tigers sweated out a 21-7 decision.

Kansas has a slight edge in the series, 27 games to 23. There have been 7 ties.

Dean of Big Seven

Don Faurot of Missouri, dean of the Big Seven coaches, said last night that End Ken Bounds was out for the season. Bounds, a good pass receiver, missed the Oklahoma game because of injuries, but Faurot had expected to have him ready for the Jayhawks.

Faurot added that several other Tigers would be far from peak form and the status of defense safety Mike Ghuouly was extremely doubtful.

Kansas drilled until dark in a defensive workout yesterday. Coach Jules V. Sikes said Bob Drumm would replace the injured Roland Eilerts at center.

Another Clash

The sparks are also expected to fly at Lincoln, Neb., where the Nebraska Cornhuskers and Colorado Buffaloes clash in another Big Seven game. Ron Clark, Nebraska sophomore halfback and a star in several games, was back in working togs after a brief absence due to injuries.

Nebraska is a slight favorite, but the Cornhuskers will have to stop sophomore fullback Merwin Hodel to win.

Oklahoma, getting ready for its revenge game with Santa Clara, yesterday stressed pass offense and punting as the varsity scrimmaged the freshmen. Santa Clara handed Oklahoma its last defeat, 20-17, in a 1948 opener.

Kansas State set up defense for a strong passing attack it expects to encounter at Tulsa Saturday.

Kramer Scores 12th Win Over Gonzales

BOSTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—Professional champion Jack Kramer has his twelfth win over Dick (Pancho) Gonzales, the 1949 National Amateur titlist, today as the "play-for-pay" tennis troupe headed for Providence, R. I., the sixteenth stop on its long tour.

Kramer impressed a 7,430 crowd with a 6-4, 6-4 victory last night at the Boston Garden.

Pancho Segura defeated Frankie Parker 3-6, 6-0, 6-4, for his 11th win in their 15 exhibition matches.

Larry Bates, Chairman of Central Missouri Coaches

WARRENSBURG, Mo., Nov. 17—(AP)—Larry Bates, Windsor, Mo. was elected chairman of the Central Missouri Coaches and Officials Association here last night.

Harry Fritz, a member of the Central Missouri State College Athletic department, was re-elected secretary.

'Bowl' Football Game At CMSC Monday Nite

WARRENSBURG, Nov. 17—The first college "bowl" football game of the 1949 season, the 'Grandstand Bowl", will be played Monday night, November 21, on the Warrensburg College field. Kick-off time is set for 7:00 p. m. The two teams, the freshmen and the Upper-Classmen, consist of men who were not listed on the Mules varsity roster.

The two squads have been practicing for the newest-post-season classic for two weeks. Contrary to general belief no serious injuries have been reported by either squad after several bruising scrimmages. The Upper-Classmen are pre-game favorites to win the first annual battle.

Baseball Rule Book To Have Some Changes

A New Strike Zone Is One Of The Big Changes In Rules

By Fritz Howell

CINCINNATI, Nov. 17—(AP)—You'll hardly recognize the baseball rule book next spring!

A 12-man committee, composed of some of the game's best brains, started yesterday on a final draft of the simplified and recodified regulations for the national pastime.

George M. Trautman, prexy of the minor and chairman of the committee, declared:

"We will be here until late tonight, after a short break for the major league draft meeting this morning. We may be here until Christmas, for we're going to have these new rules ready by spring training season."

Approved 17 Pages Wednesday

The committee started reading new rules early yesterday and as dusk fell the group had put the official stamp on 17 pages of the 66-page rough draft compiled after a year of debate.

An old baseball idea goes out the window. For the last hundred years a ball delivered fairly by the pitcher and passing over the plane between a batter's knees and his shoulders was a strike.

The new strike zone is defined as the space over the plate between the batter's knees and his armpits, when the batter assumes his customary batting stance.

"We've been talking shoulders and knees for a century," Trautman said. "But now we're really got that zone defined."

National league umpire Bill Stewart, who got a bit of ribbing a couple of years ago when accused of missing Cleveland's pick-off play in the world series with the Boston Braves, said:

"We should do something about those knees, too. You can't tell where a batter's knees are anymore, with all of 'em wearing those long pants reaching to their ankles. I think the old ball players, who rolled thier pants around the knees, looked better, too."

"No Gambling In Baseball" Edict

Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler proved a stickler for the "no gambling in baseball" edict. A rule was read under which the home team of a game played on a neutral diamond shall be determined by lot, and the commissioner declared:

"Let's not advertise lotteries. Let's get that 'lot' out of there, or people will be writing me letters." The rule was changed and if the league presidents can't agree on the home club, Chandler or Trautman will decide.

At least a half hour was consumed on whether an outfielder "shall" or "must" retain possession of a fly ball to establish validity of a catch. The umpires held out for "must," some of the others decided "shall" was correct—and the decision was held in abeyance.

Other new rules approved decreed that bats must be of solid wood, in one piece, ruling out metal-loaded, plastic or laminated clubs, and limited the type of glove a first-baseman may use.

U. S. Agriculture Official Killed While Deer Hunting

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 17—(AP)—A U. S. department of agriculture official was killed in deer-hunting accident yesterday.

Grant Thompson, 40, of Washington, chief of agriculture's production and marketing administration feed grain section, was fatally wounded north of Bingham.

Gives Chickens Fresh Air

DES MOINES, Iowa—(AP)—The neat ventilating system, thermostatically controlled, in the new Murray Chrisman chicken house enables him to house 1,000 birds in an area that normally would accommodate only 600.

Crisman farms northeast of Vinton, Iowa. The ventilating system in the big, modern chicken house, includes an 80-foot long aluminum duct bisected by an insulating material to provide separate channels, one for sucking in the fresh air and the other for blowing out stale air.

A 20-inch fan at one end of the building pulls in the fresh air. The house is kept closed.

Call letters of amateur radio stations always include a number. That is to identify the district in which they are located.

BEWARE!
The CORN BORER Has Become A Real MENACE!

"The European corn borer has become established in all counties of North Missouri and as far south as Highway 50," according to a bulletin published by the College of Agriculture, University of Missouri.

Conditions favorable to the borer caused an alarming increase in 1949, according to farmers checking their own and neighborhood fields.

Many of these farmers are changing to Peppard Funk G Hybrids because of evidence they find of their resistance to corn borer.

NOW IS THE TIME to check corn for resistance to corn borer damage. It's easy when you know how. Peppard's corn research department has prepared a simple bulletin telling you what to look for and how to look.

Youth Admits Killing Man In Arkansas

'Trigger-Happy' Youth Wounds 1; Abducts Another

HOPE, Ark., Nov. 17—(AP)— A young hitch-hiker from New England Wednesday night admitted killing one man, wounding and robbing another and kidnaping a third in southwest Arkansas earlier in the day.

Prosecutor James H. Pilkinton said Ronald Edmond Gove 20, Haverhill, Mass., made the admission shortly after his arrest at Texarkana.

The prosecutor said Gove, who is being held at Hope, will be charged tomorrow with first degree murder and kidnaping.

Gove, a tall, dark-haired nice-looking youth, was quoted by Pilkinton as saying it all started when he sought to rob Tom Seymour, 55, Fulton, Ark., planter with whom he had hitched a ride at Texarkana before dawn.

Took "More Than $100"

The prosecutor said the lad reported taking "more than $100" from Seymour, who sufered a serious bullet wound in his chest and was given a 50-50 chance to survive at a Hope hospital.

A Negro, Matthew Runnels, was killed.

A Fulton service station employe, Lee Helton, was abducted by the gunman but escaped unharmed.

Pilkinton said he and other officers had pieced together this account of the rapid sequence of events:

Seymour met Gove on a street in Texarkana and they started toward Hope, about 30 miles northeast, in Seymour's car.

The two stopped at a service station at Fulton, between Texarkana and Hope, and Gove held up Seymour.

Helton, who worked at the station and lives nearby, was awakened by a disturbance and went to investigate.

Seymour was shot, and the gunman ordered Helton to put the wounded man in Seymour's car. The three drove about five miles to near Sheppard, Ark.

Hits Abductor And Flees

There, Seymour was placed on a roadside embankment and Helton, at gunpoint, was directed to hand over his belt to be tied up.

Then a truck occupied by several Negores approached and Helton seized on the moment to hit his abductor and flee.

The gunman fired into the truck. Runnels was killed. A man answering the description of the gunman maneuvered a ride to Hope.

The youth, who is held here, was arrested after Dick Turnage, Hope taxicab driver, spotted him on a Texarkana street and identified him as a man he had driven from Hope to Texarkana. The prisoner was buying new clothes when officers nabbed him.

Arkansas state patrolman Travis Park quoted Seymour as saying he had $500 when he picked up his attacker in Texarkana and only $27 when he arrived at a Hope hospital.

Seymour was given a 50-50 chance to survive.

Sheriff W. E. Davis of Texarkana said Gove, identified from a social security card and a dishonorable army discharge in his pockets, told of serving time in the Oregon penitentiary for car theft committed while he was in service. He said he had been staying in Texarkana several days.

New Ford Has No Startling Changes

DETROIT, Nov. 17—(AP)—The 1950 model Ford cars will have many styling and mechanical improvements but no startling changes.

The new units, in production for about two weeks, will go on display in Ford dealer showrooms Friday, Nov. 18. No price changes are announced.

Styling advances include a new hood ornament, re-styled parking lights and a new deck lid handle. Doors are equipped with new rotary locks and exterior handles have pushbutton latches.

Engine features include a new timing gear and new type pistons. There are also new fans and a reduced fan speed on the V-8 engines. Improved steering linkage also is provided.

Ford engineers say they have achieved greater economy, quietness and longer life for the V-8s and 6-cylinder engines. Additional headroom also has been provided and increased areas have been sound conditioned for quieter operation generally.

The tundra, a vast swampy plain bordering the Arctic Ocean, has been called Arctic desert.

While forests are cooler than plains, they tend to be warmer at night because trees retard the escape of heat.

Gasoline Fire At Union, Mo.

Tanks Destroyed And Fire Threatened To Spread Through City

UNION, Mo., Nov. 17—(AP)—Eight large gasoline and fuel oil storage tanks were destroyed on Wednesday by a fire which for a time threatened to spread to a nearby business and residential area.

Several of the big tanks exploded with a muffled roar.

No one was injured in the spectacular blaze, which attracted a crowd estimated at 1,500. Police kept the spectators at a safe distance.

Communities Send Help

The blaze was brought under control about 2:45 p. m. (CST), two hours after the first alarm was sounded. Several nearby communities sent fire-fighting equipment.

Authorities were unable to say how the fire started. and no estimate of the damage was available. Despite a strong wind which hampered firemen, several other large fuel storage tanks were saved.

This town of 3,000 is located about 50 miles southwest of St. Louis.

Firemen poured streams of water on nearby structures to prevent the flames from spreading. About five or six companies have storage facilities in the area.

The eight tanks that were destroyed were owned by the Franklin County and Union Oil companies.

Other Buildings Destroyed

Some small frame storage and office buildings owned by the two companies also were destroyed.

Among the buildings threatened were a large warehouse and elevator of the Farmers' Co-operative Exchange. Farm supplies and stores of froceries were removed from the warehouse as a precautionary measure.

Firemen were unable to say whether the fire was preceded by an explosion. No one was working in the area when the fire broke out.

Leroy Reed, son of the owner of the Franklin County Oil Co., had been pumping gasoline from a railroad tank car into a storage tank this morning but had taken off for lunch before the fire was discovered.

U. S. Senate Lunchroom Coffee Advances 100 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—The price of coffee in the Senate lunchroom went up 100 per cent Wednesday — from five to ten cents a cup.

A second cup will cost only a nickel, the same as heretofore.

In the Senate dining room, a more stately place where many senators take their meals, the price of coffee a la carte remains ten cents a cup. But a refill, for which previously there had been no charge, now will cost ten cents.

Senate officials blamed the price hikes on the recent increases in the cost of coffee.

She'll be 'Mrs. Veep'

Publicity Over Romaces 'A Big Job' Mrs. Hadley, Who Fance Still Amazes

By NEA Service

ST. LOUIS—(NEA)—"We have a divine party planned for tomorrow night, and the Vice President is going to be there."

That message from Mrs. Clark Clifford in Washington was the only intimation Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley had that she was about to meet the man she will marry on November 18.

JANE HADLEY: "In the beginning, I was stunned."

"We've often talked about what a coincidence it was," says Mrs. Hadley of her first meeting with the 70-year-old widower, Vice President Alben W. Barkley.

"It was the only week-end he happened to be in Washington all summer," recalls Mrs. Hadley, who is 36 and a widow. "He was so busy speaking at college commencements and crowning beauty queens at the time."

She admits the romance of the "Veep and the Widow" has the appeal of "any Cinderella story, which it really is," although at the Washington party she merely thought he was a charming, gallant gentleman who was "simply being nice to a guest of the Cliffords."

Mrs. Hadley still is amazed at the amount of publicity and the number of letters—some of them from people she hadn't seen since her grade school days—the romance inspired. "In the beginning, I was stunned," she says. "I never anticipated anything of the kind."

As a result of the hectic excitement that followed announcement of the engagement, Mrs. Hadley went to the hospital with a slight case of flu and stayed there to rest up and escape the constant phone calls from well-wishers and others who wanted everything from her autograph to permission to design her trousseau.

Her transition, after November ber 18, from the life of a secretary and St. Louis apartment dweller to that of the nation's second lady and an official Washington hostess to nobles would tax any women.

"I expect it will be a big job," says Mrs. Hadley, whose background gives her a head start.

A good conversationalist in fluent French and Italian as well as in English, and a student of serious music, she also comes from a political family.

Her grandfather, William Waller Rucker, was a member of Congress from 1899 to 1921. He was a Democrat, but Mrs. Hadley switched to the Republican party—at least in 1940. That wear she questioned her milkman about his political preferences, and he told her Roosevelt was his man. The next day he found an empty milk bottle with a note from Mrs. Hadley reading: "No Wilkie, no milkie."

Her father, Roy W. Rucker, was a lawyer; her mother is a concert pianist and teacher who took Jane Hadley and her brother and sister to Europe while she studied. Her husband also was a lawyer who died in 1945, at the age of 42, leaving Mrs. Hadley with two daughters, Anne, now 17 and a freshman at Sophie Newcomb College in New Orleans, and June, 14, a St. Louis high school student.

With her knowledge of languages and a quick secretarial course, Mrs. Hadley became a secretary in the romance languages department of Washington University where she once studied. Later, she became secretary to her husband's successor at the Wabash Railroad, the position she's resigning to marry Barkley.

By the time Mrs. Hadley had returned home after last summer's meeting with Barkley, newspaper speculation had already begun. Her daughter, Anne, vacationing in California, wrote: "What in the world have you been up to now? I'm coming home so I can take care of you."

As the Veep came courting, crowds of friendly well-wishers watched Barkley and Mrs. Hadley eat hot dogs at a Cardinal baseball game, dine at various country clubs and dance on the Starlight Roof of Totel Chase.

Crowds even gathered outside Mrs. Hadley's apartment house when the Veep dined there on Labor Day, and they noted how the Bartley baritone rang out on "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." A private birthday party for Mrs. Hadley became a matter of public interest. Everyone knew Mrs. Hadley's age and what the Veep gave her—a book, "Women Are Here To Stay."

Mrs. Hadley's chief interests always have been books and music. Her seven-room apartment is simply furnished and her wardrobe is becoming but simply tailored, although she likes to splurge on hats.

She's civic minded, and did much volunteer work for the Symphony Society, League of Women Voters, and Red Cross. Barkley told friends at St. John's Methodist church, in St. Louis, where they'll be married, that he "wouldn't be surprised if she joined the Ladies' Aid Society."

Mrs. Hadley's friends add that she's a marvelous cook.

FAMILY AFFAIR: Vice President Barkley faces the camera with Mrs. Hadley and Jane, one or her two daughters.

Customers' Corner

Why will food prices go up if the anti-trust lawyers win their suit to put A&P out of business?

Here is just one of a number of reasons:

We manufacture many of the quality foods we sell in our stores, such as Bokar, Red Circle and Eight O'Clock coffees, Ann Page foods, White House milk, and many others.

Because this saves us money we are able to pass along these savings to our customers in the form of lower prices. The anti-trust lawyers have asked the court to order us to get rid of our manufacturing facilities, which would put an end to all these savings.

Make no mistake about it. If the anti-trust lawyers succeed in putting A&P out of business you will find your food bill is higher.

World Government Movement Aims to Spike War Weapons

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—Announcemnt that Russia has the secret of the atomic bomb has inspired amazing grass roots support in the U S. behind the world government idea.

This is reported by sponsors of such plans who appeared before the House committee on foreign affairs. The committee held hearings on several world government resolutions now before Congress.

In small towns all over the country organizations are suddenly being formed to support national groups which are pushing some kind of a united states of the world. The four leading organizations are the Atlantic Union committee, United World Federalists, United Nations Association and the Citizens Commission for United Nations Reform.

Contributions are now being received by these groups from thousands of persons who never were solicited or approached on the matter, it is reported. The Atlantic Union committee just received one check of $500 from a lady who said she had just read about the committee's work in the newspaper. She wrote that she hopd her donation would help bring peace to the world.

All of the groups have also suddenly been deluged by requests for literature, membership blanks and more information on how to organize local clubs. Letters are coming from all over the U. S. They have one theme in common. The writers seem to be convinced that with Russia possessing the A-bomb, the only hope for peace is through world government.

Shot In The Arm

This surprising response appears to have injected new life into the movements. A spokesman for the Atlantic Union committee says:

"We have worried that our ideas may seem a little high-level and theoretical to the average person, but the recent enthusiasm shown from a cross-section of all American citizens proves that they know what we are talking about and support us. We are now convinced we will succeed."

Even without the active man-in-the-street support, which they now hope they are winning, proponents of the world government idea think that they have come a long way in the last six months. Greatest accomplishment, they think, is the number of congressmen they have committed to support the idea — substantial majorities in both houses — and the actual passage of several resolutions by the House. Comparing two of the resolutions shows the main difference between the Atlantic Union plan and the others. The one sponsored by the United World Federalists says:

"That it is the sense of the Congress that it should be a fundamental objective of the . . . United States to support and strengthen the United Nations and to seek its development into a world federation open to all nations . . ."

Leaving Russia Out

Atlantic Union's resolution says:

". . . that the President invite the democracies which sponsored the North Atlantic Treaty to name delegates. . . . to meet this year . . . in a federal convention to explore how far their peoples . . . can apply among them, within the framework of the United Nations, the principles of free federal union."

The latter plan obviously leaves out Russia, for now at least. Former supreme court justice Owen J. Roberts, president of the Atlantic Union group, explains it this way:

"The way to stop World War III is for the peace loving nations, the democracies who have not fought an aggressive war in the last two generations, to join forces, so that no aggressor will dare attack us."

He claims that great military value to the western nations would accrue from the federated union. "For example," he says, "we would find ourselves in possession of 90 per cent of the world's naval power and the question of military bases would be enormously simplified." He believes no aggressor nation would dare attack such power.

In the long run, Roberts' group reasons, Russia would have no alternative but to join the federation, in an honest spirit of cooperation.

Like Old Times

A locomotive builder is said to be working hard on devising a diesel locomotive whistle that will sound like the familiar mournful wail of the steam locomotive. The idea is supposed to be to give better warning to motorists who don't seem to pay enough attention to the present diesel horns as they approach rail crossings.

Well, maybe that's it. But we suspect that this particular research just reflects America's reluctance to yield its romantic railroad past. The engineers working on the new diesel whistle are probably of the same breed as the GI's who in wartime went down to the London docks just to hear one good toot from engines being unloaded from home.

Gaining Navy Confidence

Adm. Forrest Sherman, the new Chief of Naval Operations, has given evidence that he intends to do all he can to smooth the troubled waters flowing around the Pentagon.

With only a personal letter of reprimand, he restored to active duty Capt. John Crommelin, the officer suspended Oct. 6 for releasing to the press a confidential Navy letter charging that the Navy was dissatisfied with current defense policies.

Secretary of Navy Matthews had denounced Crommelin for "faithlessness and insubordination."

Sherman's step surely will help to rebuild confidence among disgruntled Navy men who must somehow be won over if the desired armed forces unity is to be achieved without knocking a lot of heads together.

Growing Pumpkins

It's that season again. Last year about this time we had the "pumpkin papers" of Whittaker Chambers. Now we've got the "pumpkin-heads" of Maj.-Gen. Harry Vaughan, President Truman's military aide.

It seems the general has done a bit of painting. Dabbling in oils, he came up with a sort of symbolic effort depicting last summer's "five per center" inquiry. Among the features are two pumpkin-headed figures Vaughan says are Senators McCarthy of Wisconsin and Mundt of South Dakota. While the senators lash back, the general apparently is waiting for art critics to say: "Some pumpkins!"

A Natural Death

The big give-away shows are tumbling toward the bottom of the radio heap in popularity. One has hit 66th in it Hooperating, another 104th.

If this skid becomes permanent, the FCC's ban on give-aways may prove purely academic. Right now the networks are waiting to get court tests of the ruling under way, but the programs may well have died a natural death before a decision comes.

All we can say is it couldn't have happened to a more deserving lot of programs.

See Radioactive Iodine As New Treatment for Goiter

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

An enlargement of the thyroid gland or goiter can produce any one of several different symptoms. The enlargement may be general and the entire gland involved. This is called a diffuse goiter. The gland may be enlarged in places in the form of growths or nodules and this is called a nodular goiter. In such cases, the gland feels rough and irregular. It can be enlarged likewise by cyts and other conditions.

Regardless of the type of enlargement the gland may continue to function fairly satisfactorily. Sometimes, however, the secretion becomes excessive or abnormal and causes what are known as toxic symptoms. In other words one can have a simple nodular goiter, a simple diffuse enlargement, a toxic nodular goiter or a toxic diffuse goiter.

Treatments Vary

The treatment of a goiter depends on many factors which have to be analyzed in each individual case. Sometimes it is treated simply by watching the condition rather than by any active measures. A toxic goiter, either of the nodular type or the diffuse ttype, generally requires some definite treatment. Up until recently the best treatment was almost always operation, that is, removal of a considerable portion of the diseased thyroid tissue. This was a highly successful procedure and is still frequently advisable and done with success.

Recently new methods of treatment have proved effective, at least in some cases. These methods include a medicine of one of the uracil or the drinking of a fluid containing iodine which has been made radioactive.

Goiter is still an important medical condition but is less common than in the past probably because of the widespread use of iodized salt which has been shown to prevent the development of many goiters.

Note: Dr. Jordan is unable to answer individual questions from readers. However, each day he wil lanswer one of the most frequently asked questions in his column.

The CAMEO

By Virginia Teale

Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Martin Falter was murdered with a small, sharp pointed instrument which has not been found. His death seems to involve a valuable cameo which he had tried to sell. The body had been reported to police by Tom O'Neill, whose wife Nell was supposed to own the cameo. But before the report to police, Hagar Blair and Stephanie Smith, her assistant, had found the body. The police have learned this but they do not know that Hagar later found the cameo placed in her collection cabinet. Hagar believes it was put there by Arnold Pfeffer, who was commissioned by Falter to sell the cameo. Assisting Chief of Police Peters on the case is Charlie Reddy, a young lawyer, and Lansing Trotter, a federal agent. The case has international roots, says Trotter, and Martin Falter had previously served a term for blackmail.

* * *

XVI

CHARLIE REDDY swerved the car away from a day-dreaming cocker spaniel. "Even the dogs are asleep in this town," he said to Chief Peters. "Say! Did the coroner find what put Martin to sleep?"

"The good old stand-by, sleeping pills!" came the reply. "Same kind that knock people off all the time. Ought to be a stricter law on those things. Coroner Hughes said the pills alone probably would have done for Falter. That's the one good clue we've got. The murderer must've been drinking wine with Falter—granting that the same person did the poisoning and the stabbing."

As the police car pulled up in front of Falter's, Reddy found a parking place after some difficulty and followed the chief through a swarm of people to the porch where Police Officer Abrams was keeping sightseers away. They entered the studio and Reddy rammed his hands in his pockets and turned toward the bedroom.

"Think I'll take another look around in here."

The chief plodded after him: "Fingerprints won't tell us anything. Probably 100 different people running in and out of here within the last week. No clues, no weapon, no—"

He broke off, noticing that Reddy was gazing at the blood-stained bed.

"Funny looking pillows. Man'd get a kink in his neck sleeping on those things." He ambled over and idly banged a huge fist on one end of the bolster. It sank a few inches and the chief worked to straighten it, "Look at that, now," he fussed, "man'd spend half the night standing on his head in this dratted bed." He gave the bolster a mighty tug and then took an astonished step backward.

The two men stared down silently into a rectangular hole between the edge of the mattress and the headboard. The chief reached down and explored a wood frame built in neatly on a level with the bottom of the mattress.

"Kept something here." Reddy chewed his underlip thoughtfully: "Box of some kind, probably."

Suddenly he made a dash for the other room.

"Chief!" he called. "This is it." He strode through the door carrying a narrow box of unpainted wood.

The two men saw at once that it fitted the hole perfectly.

Peters scratched his head: "Question is, what was in it? Murderer made off with whatever it was. Money, d'you think?"

"Maybe. But remember what Trotter said about blackmail? Seems to me we're faced with the problem of the Missing Papers."

* * *

ANDREY YAKOV, sitting comfortably in front of his hearth, stretched his stockinged feet toward the slow dancing flames. The firelight was absorbed by the dull red of his flannel lounging robe, but it was reflected vividly in the cobalt eyes of the Siamese cat sitting on the arm of his chair.

He stroked the cat's taffy-colored fur:

"When we return to Russia, Babushka, I will provide you with caviar. Occasionally. It is the only thing you will like about Russia."

He walked over to the painting he had been working on:

"Have you examined this, my friend? For one afternoon's work, it is a remarkably good piece. I show something here, a certain quality, which is the essence of the American—man or woman. A combination of qualities, perhaps: defiance, aggressiveness, determination. Look here at these eyes, Babushka: Dark and sharp and cunning like a fox! And even this unbeautiful hair, like steel wire, shows the character of the woman. And note the chin: Like a rock!

"It is what you see in this face, Babushka, that will change the tide of destiny. It is typical of what you may see in millions of faces in this country. In some, more; in some, less."

From the canvas on the easel, Hagar Blair glared at him challengingly.

* * *

BABUSHKA, who had been strolling aimlessly around the room, stiffened suddenly, her head alert. Voices were approaching the front door.

Yakov knit his heavy dark eyebrows and glanced at his watch: So! They had come, even if not at the polite calling hour.

Babushka growled and leaped to a vantage point on the high back of a chair. Yakov opened the door.

Three men stood outside. One was an exceedingly large man, he had a bland, moon face and wore a dark green uniform with a Sam Brown belt, police badge and a holstered revolver. Of the other two men, Yakov looked first at the dapper, middle-aged one with sandy hair who held a fragrantly smoking briar pipe in one well-kept hand. The third man was young, handsome, well-built, and had sharply intent gray eyes.

Yakov gave the trio a pleasant nod: "Yes, gentlemen?"

Chief Peters was equally pleasant: "Mr. Andrey Yakov? I'm Peters, police chief in Dolorosa. Mr. Trotter, here, and Mr. Reddy are working with me. We have a few questions to ask you. Won't take long."

American Men Rated Tops And Here's The Reason Why

In a recent press conference Miss Europe of 1949 implied that American women don't know how lucky they are. "American men are so strong and handsome," she said.

Look, Miss Europe. No one has to tell us we're lucky women. We know it perfectly well.

But it's not because our men are so strong and handsome that we think they're tops. We've a lot more important reasons than that.

We think they're wonderful because . . .

They put their wives and children first. "Nothing's too good for the wife and kids" is a pretty general attitude among American men. And in order to give their wives and children the best they can, they'll work and struggle for years, without sitting down to wonder what they're getting out of life.

They give their wives credit for having enough sense to run the home. The American man doesn't have to be catered to continually. His slogan is "Do whatever you thing best, Hon."

Americans Are Family Minded

They are "family men" who seem to get enough of the masculine world during their working hours. When the work day is through they want to be with their wives and children.

They're generous. They like to see their wives well-dressed. They want them to have what other women have, whether what it takes for Mama to keep in the swim is a new automatic washing machine or an expensive fur coat.

They're ambitious. They're willing to work hard to get ahead. The reason why we have so many articles telling wives how to keep up with their husbands is because the American husband is determined not to stand still.

They're appreciative. Make a good home for an American husband and he's the first to admit he's lucky.

And some of them are even "strong and handsome" like Miss Europe points out. But that's not too important to Mrs. America.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO SHOP FOR Electricity!

REMEMBER how Grandfather delighted in describing the rigors of the pioneer days, when

Kerosene lamps furnished the light.
Wood ranges cooked the meals.
Ice out of a pond refrigerated the food, and
Water for household uses was carried in a bucket.

So today, if electricity came by the gallon, chances are you'd gladly buy it by the barrel, for it does so many jobs around the house that without it would require real work.

Isn't it convenient to have your electric service come special delivery into your home to every room in the house right at your fingertips? Do you wonder that right in the good old U.S.A., with less than 7% of the world's people, we use one-half of the world's electric power? This we believe is another of the many remarkable achievements of our free enterprise system where privately owned, business managed utility companies supply over three-quarters of our Country's electricity.

Three Men With an Ideal; Want to Bathe Liberty

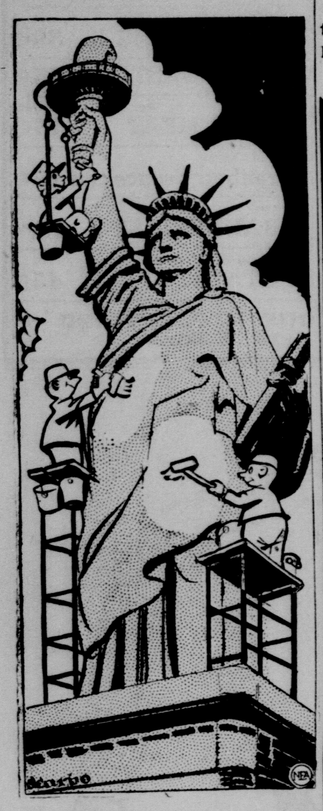
By Richard Kleiner
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—Three men with an ideal, a formula and a lot of old rags have a big job cut out for themselves. They want to clean the Statute of Liberty, an indelicate lady who has gone 63 years without a bath.

The three are dental technician Albert Baumgarten, jeweler Alexander Nagy and chemist Kurt Wasserman. Wasserman is a native of Germany, the other two of Hungary. They are all naturalized Americans and that's where the ideal comes in.

They've decided they'd like to do something to show how much they love America. It was Nagy who translated that desire into a definite project.

He'd been a sailor and later navigator, on ships sailing all over the world. Each time he put into New York harbor, he couldn't help but see how dirty Miss Liberty — her real name is "Liberty Enlightening the World" — had become.



Actually, the statue, which was put up in 1886, hasn't been cleaned since. What was once glistening bronze is now corroded and green. Chemist Wasserman says there's between an eighth and a fourth of an inch of corrosion on the Bedloe's Island Babe.

"Just think," says Baumgarten, "how nice the statue will look, bronze and shining."

"I bet ships will be able to see it — or the light reflected from it—20 miles out whe nit's cleaned," says Wasserman.

"Imagine how it will be on a night when there's a full moon," says Nagy.

What made their plan to clean the statue a practical one is the formula, a concoction they put together to help them in their professions. Both Baumgarten and Nagy had felt the need for a better liquid polishing agent, for brightening the porcelain false teeth Baumgarten makes and Nagy's jewelry. Independently, they came to Wasseran and decided to pool their ideas.

They worked for four years, tried countless different formulas until they perfected the present one. They've been using it on dentures and brooches, but they haven't tried to market it comercially.

The three have made several trips to the Island, sounding out public opinion on the project. Only twice have they found opposition.

"A janitor or something in the statue," relates Baumgarten, "did not like the idea. He said that if the corrosion was removed, the statue would crumble. That's nonsense, of course."

Another time, Wasseran talked to an elderly man, told him the plan.

"What?" said the astounded man, "You're going to take off all that nice green paint?"

They estimate that it will take them at least a month to do the job, plus 250 gallons of their polish and $1,000 worth of equipment, which they'll donate. That's providing they get permission — assistance —from the Department of Interior's National Park service, which has jurisdiction over the statue.

Honors to Otterville Club

The Otterville 4-H Club attended the Recognition Party given at Boonville high school on November 1, sponsored by the Boonville Chamber of Commerce. An entertaining program consisting of a magician show, musical numbers, singing and games, after which refreshments were served.

There were 46 from Otterville attending.

The Otterville club received the gold seal of excellence and would have been a blue ribbon club if organized in time and all their work was done after March 21. There are about 35 active members and over 40 completed projects. One of the members, Arthur Fry, was a member of the county dairy judging team at the State Fair and the club was represented by two demonstrations at the district meet, one a team composed of Zetta Meyer and Ethel Baker and Mary Fry gave an individual demonstration. In grooming at the district meet the club was represented by Mildred Hayworth.

Officers of the club elected for the coming year are: Jack Smith, president; Arthur Fry, vice president; Ethel Baker, secretary-treasurer; Zetta Meyer, game leader; Anna Lee Painton, song leader, Shirley Knowles reporter; Mrs. Leo Smith, community leader; Mrs. Vincil Fry, assistant community leader.

Mrs. Leo Smith, community leader, was presented an electric corn popper by the members.

A meeting will be held on November 21, at which time projects for next year will be decided on and leaders picked for them.

GOLDIN'S "YOUR HOME TOWN GROCER"

Her 'Parish' for Navajos Covers 16 Million Acres

Irene Hoskins And Pupil: She has to teach them to read Navajo so they'll be able to read English.

By NEA Service

FORT DEFIANCE, Ariz. — A Navajo girl, away at a school in Phoenix, was coming home for a visit. She wrote her mother a letter, telling her the good news. But when she arrived home her mother wasn't there.

The older woman couldn't read. She'd gone on a journey for several days, looking for someone to read the letter to her. And because she couldn't read she missed her daughter's visit.

That story is typical of life on the Navajo reservation, where 80 per cent — some 52,000 — of the Indians are illiterate. There are schools for only a third of the Navajo children. It's that condition that Irene Hoskins, Iowa-born Quaker missionary, and others are trying to correct.

For more than two years, Miss Hoskins has driven her truck and trailer over some 16,000,000 acres of desert in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah, bringing the ability to read to the people. Her job is sponsored by the interdenominational Home Missions Council of North America.

Before she set out on the road, to bring education and the church to the Navajo's bee-hive shaped "hogans," she had taught in reservation schools.

Since two-thirds of the Navajos speak no English, she feels that the first step in teaching them to read English is to teach them to read Navajo. She is still learning the difficult Navajo tongue, and keeps up her own lessons while teaching others.

Her "parish" is an immense stretch of desert, dotted with tiny settlements. Roads are poor, making her work all the more difficult.

During one day's "classes," Miss Hoskins and her Navajo intermediary and translator, Mrs. Edna Maloney, may visit four or five "hogans," covering 12 miles.

She finds that most of the Navajos, who have several names, want to first learn to write their English names. Some of them don't even know the correct pronunciation of their English names having had them written out by missionaries and preserving the paper carefully for many years.

Miss Hoskins finds the Navajos despite their poverty, a very hospitable race. In the tiniest, crudest "hogans," she and her assistant will be honored guests. The family brings blankets to stretch on the floor for the visitors' comfort.

The children fetch ears of brightly colored corn, and throw them on the fire. They take their best — and only — tin cups and scrub them with sand and water. And, after a short while, the youngsters hand plates of mutton and corn and cups of hot coffee to the guests.

Besides being a teacher, Miss Hoskins often finds herself pressed into service on the reservation doing other things for the natives. Once she stopped her truck at the desperate hail of a Navajo grandmother. There was a sick baby that needed help. Miss Hoskins turned her truck into an ambulance and drove the child to the nearest hospital, 40 miles away.

"I have often wondered," Miss Hoskins says, "what would have happened if the grandmother had stopped someone who knew no Navajo."

Dog Show in Swank Hotel

By Ed Creagh

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—(AP)—The swank Hotel Pierre opened its doors to a dog show today—about the doggiest dog show, in fact, that anybody ever dreamed up.

Among those present:

A Welsh terrier wearing a coat from Paris, with a little white handkerchief peering from the pocket.

A Boxier wearing a red raincoat with a hood, and waterproof leather boots to match.

An afghan (name of "Jitterbug") wearing a green peaked hat with a bird — yes, a complete bird — on it, to say nothing of an emerald green coat with a deep fringe.

Some 250 women, mostly from the Social Register, plunked down $3.25 each for a bite of lunch and a close-up view of these and assorted other canine specimens.

And Mrs. Olga Hone Rogers, president, of Dogs, Inc., and the chief-rounder-up of four legged fashion models for the occasion, said their money was well spent.

"This," she said, "is easily the greatest collection of champions ever seen outside of a regular dog show."

The show is for the benefit of the New York Tuberculosis and Health association and the sponsors decided to run it perfectly deadpan — just like a two-legged fashion show.

Spotlights were set to train on the prize-winning pooches as they descended a ramp — unclad at first, then all dolled up in their finery for a repeat performance.

House detectives were on hand too.

Not only were the dogs valuable but some of their costumes ran into money.

A miniature Pinscher, for instance, came wearing — brace yourself — a whie Angora sweater, a silver leash and a guaranteed genuine diamond collar.

Mrs. Rogers said, "Do the dogs like it? Mister, they loved it! You can just hear the lovely, dumb things saying, 'Isn't this fun? Look what they've put on me now!"

Flapper Headlines

NEXT, THE CHARLESTON—Maxine Barrett and Doug Dean in the costumes of the Terrible Twenties, admire a 1950 comeback, Chanda's white felt cloche.

By Dorothy Roe
Associated Press Fashion Editor

NEW YORK — From the neck up, at least, the return of the flapper is complete.

Most popular hat of the season, predicted for even greater acceptance next spring, is the head hugging cloche reminiscent of the jazz age.

A recent showing of resort and advance spring hats staged by the Millinery Fashion Bureau played up the Torrid Twenties trend with performers in "raccoon" coats made of shag rugs, college banners and all the rest of the impedimenta of the flapper era. All this was background for the close-fitting cloche hats that occupied the spotlight.

The flapper hats, of course, are designed to fit over the boyish bobs that are required equipment for modern debs, just as they were for their mothers back in the days of bathtub gin.

With shorter skirts predicted for next spring, with the bunny-hug coats and short evening dresses of the current mode, the flapper cycle is complete.

The only missing notes are the flat-chested silhouette and the hip belt. And these, we devoutly hope, will remain among the unrevived ghosts of the past.

BABY FACE—Beige ribbon cloche in the flapper manner, by Mr. John.

SHADES OF THE TWENTIES —High-crowned cloche slated for top honors.

Celebrates His 94th Birthday

Steve Fisher, who lives with his daughter, Mrs. Nolan Twyman, and Mr. Twyman, Route 1, Sedalia, observed his 94th birthday anniversary Tuesday, and was surprised when members of his family gathered at the home to help him celebrate.

Negro Be in National Honor Society

CLEVELAND, Nov. 17—(AP)—Twenty-two years ago, Francis A. Gregory, a Negro, was elected to Alpha of Ohio Chapter of Tau Beta Phi, national engineering honor society.

But he was not initiated because the society banned the admission of members of his race.

That rule no longer holds. So on Friday night, Gregory will be admitted as an active member in ceremonies at Case Institute of Technology here.

He now is principal of Armstrong Technical high school in Washington.

Press Program On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(AP)—President Truman's civil rights proposals were pushed to the forefront of administration "must" measures today behind his fighting slogan of "No Retreat and No Retirement."

The president served notice last night—in his second civil rights speech in five days—that he is enlisted in a finish fight against "racial and religious discrimination."

While southern Democrats up in arms against his call for anti-lynching, anti-poll tax and other anti-discrimination measures which cost him four Dixie states in last November's presidential election, Mr. Truman threw out this blunt challenge:

"We are going to continue to advance in our program of bringing equal rights and equal opportunities to all citizens. In that great cause there is no retreat and no retirement."

Mr. Truman spoke at the fourteenth annual meeting of the National Council of Negro Women and lavished praise on the record of Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, 74-year-old Negro educator and retiring president of the organization.

A crowd of several hundred Negroes and whites in the Labor Department auditorium applauded as the president declared his interest in "the extension of freedom and opportunity to all our citizens without racial or religious discrimination."

Wouldn't Quit at 81, so He's Fired

BIRMINGHAM, England, Nov. 16 —(AP)— Coal miner William Henry Stevenson, aged 81, wouldn't quit—so they fired him.

He'd worked 50 years in Birmingham mines and he was probably the oldest miner in the country.

His doctor kept telling him he ought to retire before his heart gave out. But Stevenson said he'd retire when he felt like it.

"If they don't want me," he said, "they'll have to sack me."

That's just what local authorities of the nationalized mines did yesterday. They gave Stevenson two weeks' notice.

Governors to Attend Missouri-Kansas Game

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 16—(AP)—Gov. and Mrs. Forrest Smith of Missouri will watch the Missouri-Kansas football game at Lawrence Saturday with Gov. and Mrs. Frank Carlson of Kansas.

Smith said today it will be the 36th straight year he has seen the two traditional rivals play.

Last Saturday he was at Columbia when Oklahoma beat Missouri for the Big Seven title.

"There wasn't any question but that the best team won," Smith said in his weekly letter to the rural press.

The sports minded governor took time off this morning to go duck hunting.

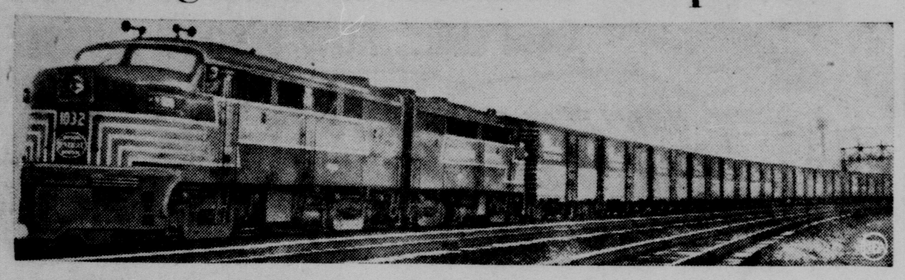
Railroads Take Word 'Express' Seriously in Fast Freights Aimed at Truck Competition



NO "SLOW DRAG" — The New York Central's "Pacemaker" freight highballs along passenger tracks at speeds as high as 65 miles per hour — and soon will be geared to hit 75 miles.

BY BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Beset by damaging competition for freight from trucks and even airplanes, the nation's railroads are fighting back.

For years they watched their trucking competitors slash steadily into their business. They suffered particularly on 350 and 500-mile shipments that trucks could handle on overnight hauls.

After the war, many of the rail lines decided to try to recapture at least part of this lost traffic. They surveyed shippers to find out what they wanted. And they learned that dependable, scheduled exxpress freight service was the answer. The shippers' accent was on dependability—not speed.

Many factories and retail establishments no longer keep big inventory backlogs. They buy their supplies on a hand-to-mouth basis. Well-timed deliveries are vital.

Realizing this, American railroads have acted to meet present day needs. Within the past two or three years, some 30 lines throughout the country have put on more than 100 fast-schedule overnight freight trains for runs averaging 350 miles.

These trains, the Super Chiefs and 20th Century Limiteds of the freight division, carry a wide range of traffic. But some are giving special attention to the generally light weight merchandise freight — called less-than-carload of LCL. Last year this business accounted for just 122.7 per cen of all loaded cars, and yet the lines want to grab as much of such traffic as they can. It's the cream of the trade.

A good example of how the railroads are battling to make new headway in this field is the New York Central's three-year-old Pacemaker Freight Service.

The Central has a pool of 1000 specially-built Pacemaker freight cars capable of rolling 75 miles an hour. Right now the scheduled express freights are being pulled by diesel locomotives that don't go more than 65, but soon they will be geared to hit the higher limit.

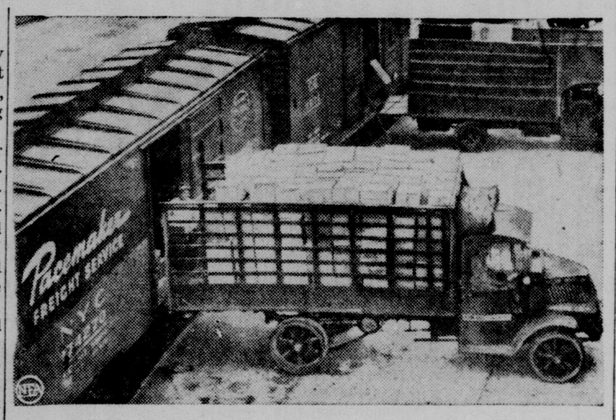
* * *

Several times a week Pacemaker freights depart in the evening from New Yofk and Boston, with Buffalo their destination. In Buffalo, comparable trains leave for the two seaboard terminals.

The Central's lines from New York to Buffalo feature four tracks —two for freight and two for passenger trains. The 50-car Pacemakers highball over the passenger right-of-way at an average running speed of 42 miles an hour in their overnight hauls. By comparison, the line's sleek streamliner, the Empire State Express, averages 53 miles an hour over the same distance.

Going westward, a Pacemaker freight out of New York reaches Buffalo around seven the next morning. Solid trains of Pacemaker cars go no farther. But individual cars are hooked into other trains and hauled on into Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan for second morning delivery. And there is third morning service to a few more distant spots.

This means a department store in Columbus, Ohio, can buy goods in New York on a Thursday, get delivery in Columbus Saturday morning and display the merchandise for sale the following Monday. Many retailers are said to be doing just that sort of thing.



PICKUP — In their bid to retrieve overnight shipments lost to highway trucks, railroads pick up "less-than-carload" merchandise at shippers' doors, deliver it right to waiting box cars.

PRICELESS GEMS— Mrs. Thomas Phipps wears the Hope (above) and the Jonker diamonds at a Bal de Tete preview in New York for the Hospitalized Veterans Music Service.

The railroads discovered it wasn't enough simply to assure dependable schedules from city to city. Shippers want reliable door-to-door service. So the New York Central and many others stress truck pickups of goods, with rail shipment the same day if the freight gets to the loading terminal by four in the afternoon. At the other end, truck delivery on a prompt schedule is also assured.

The Baltimore and Ohio decided this door-to-door reliability was the big angle, so it developed what it calls the Sentinel Service. Maintaining fast scheduled freights to the midwest and to southern connecting points, the B. and O. marks particular cars as "Sentinel" and keeps a close check on them at every stage of their travels. Shippers thus know what to expect at all times.

None of the lines contends its bid for more traffic, especially in the LCL field, will make it rich. But New York Central says its Pacemaker service has grown from 8 per cent to 20 per cent of its total LCL business, and may go to 50 per cent. It claims to be making more than out-of-pocket expenses.

The railroads plainly have no notion they can put the truckers out of business with their deluxe freights. But they do think they can demonstrate a dependability, speed and flexibility that will at least keep them permanently on a genuinely competitive level with their rivals.

History of Photography on Display In New Public Museum in Rochester

By NEA Service

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(NEA)—The history of photography, from the earliest types of cameras to the latest in Telephoto equipment, is on display at a new institution here.

Called the George Eastman House, the phtographic museum occupies the 37-room home of Eastman, one of the industry's pioneers. The displays are free to the public.

A camera autographed by Daguerre, the early French photographer who gave his name to the Daguerreotype, is one of the earliest items in the collection. The latest NEA-Acme Telephoto equipment offers a contrast to the old material used by Daguerre and his contemporaries.

* * *

Actual examples or precise replicas of other early cameras, such as those used by Fox Talbot and Niepce, are shown. Contrasted with them are the most modern types of motion picture projection systems. Visitors will be able to see six-minute color movies, by pushing a button, which show how the old-fashioned cameras operated.

George Eastman's own collection of photographic items is on display in the former dining room of the house. Eastman's first account book, the first Kodak camera and other exhibits related to him are shown.

"Portable darkroom" like this one, vintage 1864 . . .

One room is devoted to military photography. "Gun" cameras from both World Wars, aerial cameras, periscope cameras and military photographs from the Crimean, Spanish American and Civil Wars are on display.

One room, called the Hall of contemporary photography, shows the varied applications of present-day photography, such as its use in science. The manner in which scientists use cameras to track down the atom and explore nuclear fission is explained. And there is a picture taken with a stream of electrons rather than with rays of visible light.

NEA-Acme Telephoto equipment is displayed as an example of the most modern means of fast distribution of pres sphotographs to all parts of the world.

. . . turned out pictures like this one of Abe Lincoln

An old-fashioned portrait studio of the 1870's, complete with darkroom tent, is faithfully reproduced on the institute's second floor. Other displays trace the development of lenses, photography in the graphic arts, motion picture photography, projectors and amateur still cameras.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

At the annual meeting of the directors of the Sedalia Water company L. P. Andrews was elected secretary and treasurer, also general manager. H. C. Warren, New Haven, Conn., was elected president.

August Helfert has prepared plans for the erection of two dwelling houses on Wilkerson street for F. T. Mulcahy.

Richard Nelson, a former clerical employe at the Missouri Pacific shops, has accepted a position with the Mobile and Ohio railway at Columbus, Miss.

Dr. Carl Hoberecht, a Sedalia boy, resigned the office of house surgeon at the Social Service hospital at St. Louis, to be connected with the city hospital in that city.

What's RIGHT?

SITUATION: You telephone to ask a couple to dinner and the wife says "I'm sorry we won't be able to make it. My sister will be visiting us that week-end."

WRONG WAY: Feel that you must say, "I'd like very much for you to bring your sister."

RIGHT WAY: Unless you really want to have the extra person, feel perfectly free to say, "How nice that she can be with you. We can get together some other time just as well."
